Report Calculations

((Carry Fwd + Gain - Mult. Gain) X School Days) = Actual Days

Actual Days - (Off Track + Days N/E + Days Absent) = Days Attd

[Days Attd / (Actual Days - Off Track - Days N/E)] X 100 =
ADA%

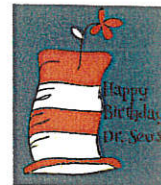

[Note: Multiple gains are for students that entered more than one time during the report time span.]

Create Internet Rules for Kids

You wouldn't let your kids overload on sugar or junk food, and the Internet is exactly the same. Kids need guidelines and limitations to reduce the likelihood of getting into trouble online.

Be Active Online with Them - Have your child teach you how to do things online or how to play their favorite game. Watch online videos together. Talk about the cool things you find.

Monitor Their Internet Use - It's best to let your kids know up front that you will be monitoring Internet use to ensure there have been no security breaches or inappropriate use. Monitoring is the #1 way to protect kids online and your own financial security. You can monitor online activity and safety breaches with computer virus detection software and by checking the history in the Internet browser to see which websites have been accessed and when. You can also install apps on your phone and/or tablet to track Internet activity on mobile devices.

Limit Internet Use - Today kids spend hours every day on the Internet. Specify a maximum time limit for non-school related activities. Also establish when Internet time can occur, such as during a certain time of day, after all homework is done, etc.

Lay Ground Rules for Devices - Discuss which devices they can use and which ones are off limits.

Create a Password Policy - Weak passwords are a huge Internet safety concern. Provide guidelines for passwords that should be used every time an account is created.

Have an Approval Process for Purchases and Sign Ups - Scammers target kids as a way to tap into their parent's financial information. Lay ground rules that establish all purchases have to be made by you.

Establish Punishments for Breaking the Rules - Signify the importance of the Internet rules by also establishing punishments for breaking them.
